Still a Puzzle

Roosevelt, Back In Capital, Remains Silent About Third Term

STARTS EIGHTH YEAR

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt reached the seventh anniversary of his precedent-breaking New Deal regime today in an atmosphere teeming with speculation over whether he would continue to challenge tradition and seek a third term.

The chief executive has told reporters, however, that he would not utilize the occasion to disclose his intentions.

Third term or not, the graying president at 58 still gets a kick out of his job, his associates say, despite reports that he is tiring of it.

Rumors continue to float around capitol corridors that he will favor Secretary Hull or Attorney General Jackson as his successor if he takes himself out of the picture.

But no one apparently is ready to state with any definiteness what his position might be when the Democratic convention meets on July 15.

Many politicians believe the confidential report on peace prospects which Undersecretary Welles will bring back from Europe may help the president chart his political course.

In observance of today's anniversary, Mr. Roosevelt decided to attend a special morning service at the "Church of the Presidents"—St. John's Episcopal—across Lafayette square from the White House.

Tonight the cabinet will entertain him and Mrs. Roosevelt at dinner.

Always the performer of the dramatic and the unexpected, the president attained the seventh milestone of his administration by enlarging on one of his many "firsts." His Panama cruise added more than 4,000 miles to the presidential travel record which he set a year ago. His total now is about 178,000 miles.

Even before Mr. Roosevelt announced in his 1933 inaugural address that he would do "first things first," he had indicated his disregard for time-honored practice by flying to Chicago in 1932 to accept his nomination. He has not flown since.

Conditions confronting Mr. Roosevelt today present the double problem of keeping out of war under a new neutrality policy and finding a solution to such domestic matters as unemployment.

The president told congress in January that the impact of war abroad made it natural to approach the "state of the union" through a discussion of foreign affairs. But this did not mean, he said, that the government was overlooking the great significance of domestic policies.

"The social and economic forces which have been mismanaged abroad until they have resulted in revolution, dictatorship, and war," he asserted, "are the same as those which we here are struggling to adjust peacefully at home."

Mrs. James Roosevelt Expects to Be Given Freedom Today.

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Mrs. Betsy Cushing Roosevelt hopes to be awarded a divorce today from James Roosevelt, eldest son of the president and a motion picture producer.

Howard K. Cushing, her brother, will substantiate personally or by deposition her charges that Roosevelt deserted her 14 months after she had denied two requests for a divorce. Cushing was ill Friday and Superior Judge Thomas C. Gould continued the hearing.

Judge Gould had accepted a photographic copy of a property settlement under which Mrs. Roosevelt would have custody of the children—Sara Delano, 7, and Kate, 4. The agreement, reached last November, also provided for support of Mrs. Roosevelt and the children.

Accused Man Held to Grand Jury on Charge of Shooting With Intent to Wound.

A 26-year-old cigar clerk who, early today allegedly shot at a taxicab driver whom he accused of "chasing after" his young wife was behind bars at the county jail charged with shooting with intent to wound. His shot went wild.

"Pleading guilty to the charge in municipal court this morning, John J. Sessler, of 343 Springmill street, was bound over to the grand jury under $2,000 bond.

Police who arrested him at his home at 3:30 a. m. today accused him of discharging a small automatic pistol at Adam Karbula, 60½ East First street, a cab driver, whom Mrs. Sessler said she had called to the Ring-side to "talk things over" with her and her husband.

The shooting occurred, officers said, on East Third street, shortly after midnight last night when Sessler charged the doorway of the Ring-side night club with a gun in his hand and fired at Karbula.

The bullet, they said, lodged in the center support of the taxicab between the front and rear window, missing the driver only by inches.

In a statement to County Prosecutor G. W. Marriott, the young husband said he suspected his wife and the driver of "running around" together.

He told Marriott that he "lost" his head when he fired the gun. Marriott said that both Sessler and his wife had been drinking (Continued on Page 5, Col. 7)

TWO PER CENT?

Levy on Salaries of Auditor's Department Is Charged.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Miss Gertrude Jones, state civil service commissioner, said today she had received formal charges that State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson had levied a two per cent assessment on the salaries of the employees in his department.

The charges were made by Fred Stiles, former claims examiner in the auditor's department. Miss Jones said the charges were similar to Stiles' charges which were reported in newspapers.

She said, however, that photostatic copies of checks which Stiles allegedly wrote in making the assessments were not included with the charges.

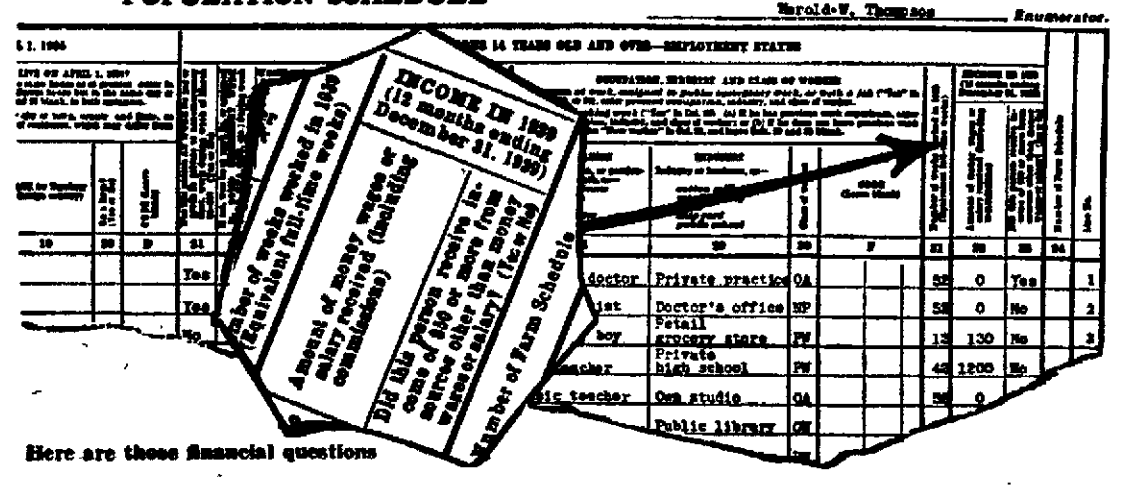

"I would like to see them," Miss Jones said. She indicated that Stiles probably would be summoned to appear before the commission to give a verbal account of the charges. Stiles, Miss Jones said, is now employed by the state highway department.

CITY WRECKED AS SOIL SINKS

Downtown Shenandoah Buildings Collapse as Rains Hit Area.

(By Associated Press)
SHENANDOAH, Pa.—Mid-city Shenandoah sank slowly today, toppling homes and cracking business buildings, as abandoned anthracite mine workings below the town collapsed after a 24-hour rain.

City officials said property damage would reach $1,000,000. Residents, awakened by the rumbling that warned of the cave-in, fled from a 16-block area that settled slowly and steadily. Police Chief Frank Alinsky said no one was reported killed or injured, but property damage was heavy.

By 8 a. m., seven hours after the subsidence first was detected, many buildings had settled 18 inches and widening cracks streaked across facades and sturdier brick structures.

Many homes were split in two. The ground began to settle and split open about 1 a. m., Alinsky reported. Seven hours later it was still sinking slowly.

Policemen, warned of the disaster by loud rumblings, quickly aroused residents and led them to safety.

Gas and water lines were broken on the ground sank around them and police immediately ordered valves at pipes leading into the area closed.

"Some of the buildings were split in half," Chief Alinsky said. "In some houses, doors jammed so tightly that the people had to crawl out of windows to get away."

Chuncking reports placed the casualties as high as 400. The tender was operating between Ningpo and Changhai.

POISON CAKE

Contractor, Family Believed Victims of Mystery Toxin.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Six members of a family of nine were in hospitals today suffering from the effects of a mysterious poison believed to have been in chocolate cakes purchased at a neighborhood bakery.

Two other members of the family were recovering at home as laboratory technicians at University hospital analyzed the cakes in an effort to determine the identity of the poison.

George Humphrey, a contractor, alone escaped the effects of the toxin that struck down his wife, Stella, 43, and their seven children. He became alarmed when his family was stricken and summoned police.

Two of the children, James, 16, and Jack, 14, were reported in serious condition, while the others were believed out of danger.

TWO INJURED IN AREA TRAFFIC

Three Accidents Near Mansfield Reported; 11 Killed Throughout State.

Two Mansfield men were injured and two others escaped injuries in three accidents reported in this vicinity over the weekend. In Ohio 11 persons lost their lives due to traffic accidents.

Schuyler Mercer, 42, R. D. 1, Mansfield, is confined to General hospital with a fractured hip and chin lacerations, suffered when his car and one driven by James T. Williams, 32, of 170 East Third street, collided at 11:15 a. m. Sunday on route 13, five miles north of Mansfield. Williams was treated at the hospital for scalp lacerations, and released.

According to reports of the accident given highway patrolmen, Williams was on the wrong side of the road when the cars collided. Both men were alone.

Betty McKeehen, 228½ North Main street, escaped injury at 9 a. m. today when her car skidded and overturned four miles west of Mansfield on route 30-N, and Joe Them, 402 Central avenue, escaped injury when struck at the corner of East Fourth and Foster streets at 12:15 a. m. Sunday, by a car driven by Richard W. Underwood, 361 Springmill street, according to police. Underwood reported to police that Them was not injured.

County Receives Approval on $110,000 Resurfacing Project

Richland county's road department has received WPA approval today of a $110,000 road resurfacing project to start about April 1.

County Engineer Howard Sward said about 15 miles of county roads will be improved under the project, the first of several he intends to seek for the county.

The project is expected to provide jobs for nearly 200 men for five months. The federal government will finance the labor, estimated to cost about $51,000, while the county will provide funds for materials and the use of its equipment.

Bituminous materials will be used in resurfacing the roads, several of which have been badly damaged by the water weather and flood waters.

Included in the project are the Olivesburg-Fitchville road in Wellier and Butler townships, Ontario-Shelby road in Springfield township, Pleasant Valley road in Monroe township, Mansfield-Washington road in Madison and Washington townships, Mt. Zion road in Monroe and Milford townships and the Possum Run road in Washington and Jefferson townships.

Flood Peril Fades, Roads Open Again

Highways All Over State Under Water Following Week-end Rains.

Receding flood waters permitted the opening of all Richland county roads to traffic today after at least eight state and county routes were inundated Sunday by rampaging streams that flowed over hundreds of acres of farm lands.

As the flood swept southward toward the Ohio river nearly a score of state routes were closed, bridges were carried away and homes were threatened by high water.

At least three persons were reported dead in the flood in Ohio. Harry Burns, 45 and Sam Maroni, 50, drowned in a "flash flood" near St. Clairsville when the waters of Wheeling creek washed out a bridge on which they were standing. The body of Charles C. Baxter, 72, was recovered from the waters of Slate run near Piketon after he fell from a railroad bridge.

Three state highways in Richland county, closed yesterday by high water, were free of water today, state highway employees said.

Route 13 north and south of Mansfield, route 97 east of Bellville, and route 545 near Olivesburg were flooded most of Sunday and last night. Several inches of water covered route 13 at Bellville.

County Engineer Howard Sward said four county routes both north and south of the city were flooded yesterday, but they were open again today. Covered by the water were sections of the Bowman street and Lybarger roads in Cass township, the Courtney road near Lexington, and the Butler-Newville road east of Butler.

Road officials were unable today to estimate the damage caused by floods and winter freezing and thawing, but they were certain it would amount to several thousand dollars.

As a protective measure for county roads during the spring months, county commissioners today set limits of four and a half and six tons for trucks operating over the roads until May 1. The six-ton limit is for trucks with (Continued on Page 5, Col. 1)

Welles Reaches Switzerland After 'Cordial' Reich Talks

(By International News Service)
BASLE, Switzerland—American Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles arrived at Basle from Berlin today and then departed for Lausanne, where he will rest until Wednesday before proceeding to Paris for the next stage of his fact-finding tour of Europe.

At Basle Welles was welcomed by the American consul general and a small group of officials. Ten American newspaper correspondents accompanied him to Lausanne.

According to information from Paris, Premier Daladier will emphasize that France's peace aims are linked with those already announced by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain.

BERLIN—(AP)—The visit of Sumner Welles has broken the "log-jam" in German-American relations and the Reich now anticipates a gradual return to normal, it was stated in high Nazi circles today.

President Roosevelt's personal emissary made a "good impression" on the Nazi leaders whom he interviewed, it was said.

pneumatic tires and the more severe limit for trucks or wagons with hard tires.

In Mansfield, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said it would cost at least $10,000 to repair city streets that have broken down under the severe winter weather and were further damaged by the heavy rainfall Saturday night and Sunday. He said the streets were broken through in an estimated 2,000 places in the city.

A crew of workmen was busy today repairing some of the holes in the streets with asphalt mix. Crafton advised careful driving over the broken streets.

The week-end of typical March weather that brought everything from thunder storms to snow left crippled transportation facilities and forced scores of families to vacate their homes as rising waters threatened to flood residential sections of a number of cities.

At Loudonville the waters of Black Fork inundated Municipal park and rose to the edge of the Three C highway. Waters in the swamp land along route 326 between Shreve and Big Prairie were reported rising today and were expected to destroy a section of the highway.

A 125-foot wood bridge over the Huron river at Milan collapsed under pressure of the river's biggest ice gorge in 10 years. Ice in the Chagrin river at Cleveland was dynamited to relieve flood conditions.

Fifty families evacuated their homes at the mouth of the Little Miami river at Cincinnati. The Ohio river rose nearly six feet in 48 hours at Cincinnati reaching a stage of 35.7 feet today. A crest of 40 feet, 12 below flood stage was expected unless heavy rain continues in the Ohio valley.

With the temperature at 31 degrees in Mansfield at noon, a light drizzle changed to snow. Light rain or snow was forecast for tonight, with clearing skies and colder weather in prospect for Tuesday.

The promise of clear weather heartened residents of the Massillon, Fremont and Upper Sandusky areas where flood waters rose to the highest marks in recent years. Six state and national highways, including route 30, were flooded by the waters of the Sandusky river in Wyandot county.

The same river backed up into the streets of Fremont and ice slabs two feet thick menaced the hydro-electric dam near the city.

about German-American relations to the complete exclusion of possible peace in Europe.

Present conditions in Europe make the slightest consideration of peace or mediation out of the question, German authorities declared. But it was felt that Welles' personal contacts with the leaders of the Reich will enable him to offer Mr. Roosevelt a "constructive clarification" of the German viewpoint.

Considerable stress was laid on the fact that Welles saw Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, absentee German ambassador to Washington, on his return from a visit to Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's hunting lodge at Schoorheide near Berlin.

The German press continued to give no hint of possible progress made in the Welles' discussions with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and the other key figures of the third Reich. The American undersecretary himself maintained absolute silence up to the time of his departure except to stress the cordiality existing throughout the discussions.

Two persons were killed when the British steamer Albano, 1,176 tons, was sunk off the Scottish coast Saturday, it was revealed today.

Viipuri Defenders Are Heartened By Reports.

HELSINKI—(AP)—While searing Russian fire continued to pour into beleaguered Viipuri from three sides, the Finns clung desperately to its defense today and counted among heartening successes in other battle zones a smashing blow against the Russians northeast of Lake Ladoga.

One thousand of the enemy were reported killed at Kolka, where patrol activity and artillery fire repulsed repeated waves of Russian infantry supported by tanks, propelled sleds and other motorized equipment.

On other fronts, where savage fighting was said still to be in progress, the Finnish communiques yesterday reported gains on the eastern side of the Karelian isthmus—where the Russian invaders have failed to dent the Mannerheim line—and at Kuhmo and Salla on the eastern front.

MOSCOW—(AP)—Red forces closing in on Viipuri reported new advances to the north and south of the shell-shattered port city today and indicated strategy of encircling it and severing all supply lines before the knockout blow.

Two newly won positions were Tuppuraansaari, a bay of Viipuri island 15 miles to the south, and Saarela, a hamlet an undisclosed number of miles to the north, the Red army announced.

On the island, the Reds reported capturing six fortifications, five of them iron and concrete forts with heavy coast defense guns in full working order. At Saarela, the Russians said they took the fully equipped headquarters of a "large military formation" and four 75-millimeter guns.

The communique reporting the gains did not mention fighting in Viipuri itself, into which the Russians had said they battled their way Saturday.

Italy Lodges Vigorous Protest On Blockade.

ROME—(AP)—Italy, formally protesting against the British blockade of German coal shipments to Italy, has told Great Britain that "economic and political relations" of the Rome and London governments are endangered.

The note of protest, delivered yesterday to the British embassy went beyond a formal protest against the British admiral's order to halt the coal shipments. It struck at contraband control generally and charged that interception of mail on the high seas was a flagrant violation of The Hague convention 1907.

The submission of all maritime traffic of non-belligerent countries to contraband control, the note said, "is manifestly abusive."

Reichswehr reinforcements of "several" new divisions trained during the winter were said to be arriving behind the active front while aerial feints back and forth across it intensified over the week-end, stressing the belligerents' anxious watch of each other for a hint of springtime tactics.

Other German units were reported moving into the region facing Switzerland.

and that they had agreed to call Karbula in order to settle their differences.

Both Karbula and Mrs. Sesler denied any improper behavior, the prosecutor said.

The cab driver told authorities that he drove to the Ringside and saw Mrs. Sesler, whom he admitted knowing, inside the door. At the same time he said, Sesler charged out another door.

He said that when he saw the gun in Sesler's hand he put the taxicab in gear and shot forward. He said Sesler fired at almost the same moment the bullet striking the cab. Karbula then drove to his office and called police.

Police said they recovered the small pistol after Sesler revealed that he had hidden the gun. They said it showed evidence of having recently been fired.

Sesler and his 20 year old wife were married six years ago in Cincinnati, they told police.

Young Wives Have Lost Play Time

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Whenever I pick up a paper and read that someone has left a sizable fortune for cats and dogs, though I love both of these "critters," I wonder why people with money to leave don't start some sort of foundation for young married women under 20, who have missed their playtime in life.

I get such pitiful letters from girls who have married at 16, 17 or even earlier, and whose lives are a grim round of drudgery, while the almost equally young child-husband is off evening after evening, goodness only knows where.

What's back of all these ill-considered child weddings which turn sour before the wedding dress has lost its freshness? Is it our faulty system of education? Is it those glamorous movies with high-pressure romance and magical surroundings which bewitch a girl of 16 and make her see in some hobbled-together, who has not yet outgrown the pimples of adolescence, a Prince Charming?

Whatever it is "something ought to be done about it." The remedy might be an educational course on the facts of life, instead of leaving this type of education to sex magazines, which, thank goodness, are now being swept off the newsstands by due process of law.

Another remedy might be in honestly trying to discover if girls have any genuine ability to take training beyond the grade schools and teach them something which would enable them to take decent jobs and stand on their own feet.

Some time ago, I got a letter from one of these child-mothers. She was 18, had two children, and realized that if her loneliness and bitterness, caused by the neglect of her husband, did get her down, that she'd be a poor type of mother for her babies.

So she started up some kind of a club in the neighborhood where she lived, got a couple of the mothers to take turns at being "minders" for the other women's children, while the club met. Tea was served with bread-and-butter sandwiches, and the girls discussed best bargains at chain stores, best methods of bringing up babies, and even made little feeble jokes about their absentee husbands who couldn't bear to hear meat frying, babies crying, or the rest of domesticity so different from the movie version. It was just a little friendly pow wow, and it helped lots.

Churches could do real missionary work at home, if they would only take into consideration this side of life. Brave young mothers, who have lost their playtime of life and are doing their best, under the circumstances, surely need a helping hand.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON
Continuation of "Married Comrades"

FOR TWO long seconds my father and the captured intruder faced each other. Then my father spoke with sharpness.

"Well! What have you to tell me?"

"I must speak to you alone," he said. "All these must go out. No one but you must hear what I have to say."

"No, Father, no!" I protested excitedly, for I could not bear the vision of this evil-looking man left with my father in his enfeebled condition.

"She's right, Dad," Dicky said earnestly. "Pick one of us men to stay in with you."

"No," the man said again explosively. "Nobody else, or I do not talk."

"Please let me take him out, Chief," one of the guards said venomously. "I'll bet he'll talk before anybody by the time I get through with him."

My father shook his head.

"No," he said. "I must see this man alone. I am armed." He made company of convict, Verne Andre played by Clark Gable.

"Babes In Arms."
Beginning Tuesday at the Majestic theater is "Babes In Arms," which stars Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland. Song and dance lathos and drama form the background for their first co-starring appearance. The story deals with the era when vaudeville passed out of the entertainment picture. The second feature is "They All Come Out," with Rita Johnson, Tom Neal, Bernard Nedell and Edward Gargan in the cast.

Gleason Family.
Based on the mounting contest mania which is sweeping the country, "Money to Burn," the latest episode in the gay life of the Higgins family, now showing at the Park theater, deals with the attempts of Lil, Joe Higgins and family to get something for nothing. The Higgins family is played by the Gleason family, James, Lucile and Russell. In "Everything's On Ice," tiny Irene Dare, six-year-old actress has the starring role, giving the unusual performance of graceful ice-skating for a child of that age.

Medicine or Love?
Dorothy Lamour, Akim Tamiroff and John Howard are the cast leaders in the tale of the medical world which is portrayed in the film "Disputed Passage," showing at the Ritz theater. This is the story of the conflict between two philosophies in medicine. In the most uproarious comedy of their careers, the Marx Bros return to the screen in "Marx Bros. at the Circus," with Florence Rice and Kenny Baker also in leading roles.

Be Good To Feet For Comfort

By MME. QUI VIVE

Ten little fingers and ten little toes! Little fingers display rosy shining nails, but how about the toes? They get their glittering enamel, but that's not enough. They should be kept in form. It is surprising how many unpleasant things can happen to pink pedal shells. Ill-fitting shoes make them thicken and become so brittle that the eaves are ragged despite the utmost care.

The time for the home pedicure is after the bath, when the tissues surrounding the nails are soft and pliable. Don't trim them with the scissors, but rather use a flexible steel file—buy the best one you can find, made of high grade steel and with fine grooves so it will cut quickly. Work from the sides toward the center, but not filing down at the sides. Form a straight across line. If you dig down at the sides you will be in for plenty of trouble. You will have thickened cuticles and ingrowing nails, horrors that one wouldn't wish on one's meanest enemy.

On the toenails, as on the fingernails, the flesh should not be allowed to extend far up on the nail base. Lift it gently with the orangewood stick. If it proves stubborn use a few drops of mineral oil. Oil is beneficial, keeps the nail fabric smooth. The little sheaths like it, thrive upon it and keep their healthy coloring.

If there are signs of inflammation or the formation of pus, be wary. Soak the foot in a hot boric acid solution. If there is not relief in a short time, consult a foot specialist. It is not safe or wise to neglect a condition of that kind.

Give your toes plenty of wriggling space if you would keep them in a normal state. Narrow-toed shoes throw them into a huddle, then growing higher on one side than the other. Because of pressure, a sharp nail can cause a wound in the neighboring toe.

Corns are caused by pressure and friction. Removing them does no good if the same shoe is worn. Spiked heels often cause the flesh to harden at the ends of the toes, banking up in calloused points that are painful. Soaking in warm water, frictioning with a toilet pumice, wearing lower heels will do away with these cutaneous pests.

The final flourish of the pedicure is a thin film of polish to match the finger nails.

Fewer Chances Today

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph. D.

One hundred and thirty-one years ago, in a rough log cabin in Hardin county, Kentucky, Abraham Lincoln was born.

When he was seven years of age, his family moved to Indiana, a distance of about 100 miles. Pots, pans, kettles, blankets, the family Bible and other things were put into bags and loaded on a couple of horses. Abe's mother and his sister, Sarah, climbed on one horse; Abe and his father on the other. When it was hard going for the horses, the father and mother walked.

In Indiana, Tom Lincoln, Abe's father, built a cabin of one room 18 feet square. The earth was its floor; it had no windows; its light and heat came from a log fire within. From this new home Abe and his sister walked to school nine miles away.

Abe's mother, Nancy, who died when he was eight, was a praying, Bible-reading and God-fearing woman, and his father, Tom, a man "that didn't drink and cuss."

When Abe went off to school in the morning, his mother washed out the corners of his ears and combed his hair and kissed him. This waiting upon the lad did not seem to hurt him. If children of today had as many opportunities for learning self-reliance as did Abe Lincoln, they would also profit from such mothering.

The trouble is that there are so few natural opportunities for modern children to take on responsibilities at home. Mothers of today keep on washing ears and necks of their school children not merely until they are eight, but often until 18, or such time as the child rebels.

Abe Lincoln early learned re-

DON'T GET TOO PROUD
PLENTY OF the good scores you get depend upon factors which are completely beyond your control. There are contracts which would be beaten beyond peradventure of a doubt except for the luck of a fortuitous lead. Maybe the opening leader is in such a position that any lead he makes will give you your contract, whereas if his partner had the lead it would be impossible for you to succeed. Sometimes it may pay us to recall the old question: "Oh, why should the spirit of Mortal be proud?"

East could have made a worthwhile sacrifice bid of grand slam against this, but expected to take two tricks with his aces. He led the club A, and was chagrined to see it ruffed. North thereupon took a round of trumps and five hearts, discarding one of dummy's diamonds on the last one. At the end he gave up a diamond trick to East's A.

If West had been in the lead, and had seen fit to lead the diamond Q, the contract could have been beaten two tricks by double-dummy defense. If declarer ducked this, West then could have switched to a heart to give his partner a ruff. If North had covered the diamond Q with the K, East after winning could have underled his diamond J to West's 10 and then have obtained his heart ruff.

The hand is just one more illustration of the difficulties encountered by the poor defenders and therefore the advantages enjoyed by the declarer.

pect for property and the rights of others to its possession. At about 14 he borrowed a book from Josiah Crawford. The book was soiled one night by the rain that beat in through the cracks of the cabin. Abe went to the owner of the book and volunteered to harvest corn to pay for it, and he pulled corn fodder for two days. At about the age of 20, Lincoln kept a store. He discovered one evening that a woman had paid him six cents too much. That night he walked six miles to pay the six cents to the woman, earning the title of "Honest Abe." No university degree could equal that. Let us lose no opportunity to lead our children to want to be honest when they don't have to be.

Rubber, sugar and coffee were respectively the principal agricultural imports of the United States in 1938.

Holland Offers Tasty Bits

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Recipes borrowed from every part of the world where he has appeared in concert or opera are making Herbert Janssen, opera baritone, one of his company's best cooks. Like Pinza, Melchior, Schorr, this singer enjoys cooking and preparing special delicacies for other singers in his company.

Janssen's favorite fare is the food of Holland, and he has collected recipes every time he has appeared in Amsterdam or The Hague. Vischkoekjes (fish cakes), bieten met appelen (beets with apples), boterhamkoek (bread and butter cake) and Flemish thin pancakes), are some of the recipes that Janssen borrowed, and which we in turn borrowed from him, thinking our readers might like to experiment, too.

Fish Cake Recipe.
The fish cakes are made with six ounces cooked fish, two ounces bread, one egg, one-half pint of milk, five tablespoons butter, chopped parsley, with a seasoning of salt, pepper and nutmeg. The fish is chopped, mixed with other ingredients, shaped into rissoles and fried in butter.

Beets with apples is a favorite Dutch dish, since beets are widely cultivated there. It's easy to make. Just peel and slice two large, cooked beets or four small ones, and put them in a saucepan with five tablespoons butter, one shredded onion, four finely-chopped, sour apples, season with salt and good dash of nutmeg. Simmer till reduced to a pulp.

Bread and Butter Cake
Dutch cakes are famous, and probably the most popular of all the cakes is the bread and butter cake. This is made with one pound of flour or whole meal flour, eight ounces syrup, seven tablespoons brown sugar, one-half pint milk, two teaspoons anise seeds (optional) teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, three teaspoons baking powder, teaspoon of ginger. Mix all the dry items in a bowl. Mix the syrup and the milk, and add gradually to the dry ingredients, working into a firm dough. This should be done somewhat quickly. Put the mixture in a well-greased pan, a sandwich loaf pan is best, and bake for one to one and one-half hours in a moderate oven. Let stand until quite cold. Should be a little hard, keep it in the bread box with other breads before using.

The thin pancakes are among Janssen's most used recipes, and after we sampled them we knew why. The pancakes are made with one and one-quarter cups flour, one-half pint milk, two eggs, pinch of salt, three tablespoons butter. Break eggs into a bowl, stir, add salt, flour and six tablespoons of the milk. Beat with a whisk until the batter is quite smooth and light. Add the remaining milk gradually. Warm a little butter in the pancake pan, and drop in a small quantity of the mixture, so as to make a very thin pancake. This is essential. Cook in a very light color on both sides. Fill with jam or with brown sugar.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, March 5.

A productive and progressive day is read from the predominant planetary configurations, although success must be wrested from difficulties, obstacles and hostile opposition. Determination, perseverance and hard work to attract the interest and solid support of employers, superiors or others whose co-operation is essential in putting over important projects. The conflict may be with groups, such as unions, guilds or organized opponents. Private affairs unfold romantic aspects.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year calling for all their skill, resolution, perseverance and industry, as well as boldness and initiative, in successfully launching new and important projects. There also will be obstructions, opposition and enmity, but these may be met by firm resistance, fidelity and patience, thus winning the definite support of those in prestige and influence. Enduring progress and stability should ensue.

A child born on this day may be able, industrious, practical and constructive, and should win against obstacles by patience, persistence, enterprise and co-operation of those in power. It may have jealous or passionate outbursts.

Based on production levels during the first nine months of 1939, Canadian officials estimated their country's gold output would be worth $180,000,000.

The Christian Endeavor has 80,000 societies throughout the world.

Informally Speaking...

March 4, 1940.

Lucy, dear:

Even though March did come in like a lamb, it hasn't been a very pleasant one so far, with rain and fog in evidence every day—so if we still have the lion to look forward to, the weather prospects for the month don't have very favorable aspects. But in spite of the weather, Lucy, I hope you can arrange to come over next Sunday evening. . . . You haven't been here for quite a long time, and then I know you'd like to hear the concert which is to be presented by the Girls' Chorus of Wooster college. . . . They're to present a program at 7:30 in the First Presbyterian church. . . . Incidentally, I suppose you remember Earl Fatkin, who was a resident of Mansfield before moving to Pittsburgh a few years ago, don't you? Well, he's a senior at Wooster college now and is business manager of the Girls' Chorus, so he's bringing the group here for next Sunday evening's concert.

Marianne

You'll be interested in knowing that Don R. Underwood is in town on a 20-day leave from Long Beach, Cal.—he's doing duty there on board the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, flagship of the United States fleet. . . . Upon returning to the fleet about the middle of the month, Don will be on Asiatic duty. . . . He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Underwood, a graduate of Mansfield Senior high and has served one year as third class petty officer on the Pennsylvania.

NEWS about other absent young Mansfielders comes from Boston, Mass. . . . Barbara Hartman (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hartman) has begun her field work as a regular part of the program offered by the Simmons College school of business and secretarial duties. . . . Barb is employed one day a week as a secretary by the Pilgrim Press in Boston—and her practice work will continue until the end of the school year. . . . She's a senior at the school, you know, and is chairman of the social activities committee for dormitory students.

Jacob Sheriff, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hoover and Annabel Shanberger left Saturday to drive to Florida. . . . They will be gone for a month and plan to tour the state. . . . They will stop off for some time in Clearwater to visit with Mr. Hoover's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hoover, whom you probably remember, Lucy, because they lived here before going to that Florida city some three years ago.

IN FACT, Clearwater seems to be quite a popular vacation spot with Mansfielders just now. . . . Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gorman are there for an extended visit—they're staying at the Fort Harrison hotel.

And speaking of Wooster college (as we were a few minutes ago), Margaret Hall, who was graduated from that last June, went over for a visit this past week-end. . . . Needless to say, the most exciting part of her trip was witnessing the Wooster-Muskingum basketball game—Wooster won, and simultaneously won the Ohio conference championship.

IF YOU'RE in Cleveland Friday night, I'm sure you'd find it interesting to take in the Horse Show which the girls of Flora Stone Mather college of Western Reserve university will have in Troop A Armory. . . . Lake Erie college at Painesville and Baldwin-Wallace college at Berea are also taking part. . . . A Mansfield girl, who goes to Mather, Virginia Rupp will participate in the show—she's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rupp.

ALL of which seems to wind up the news for today, Lucy. . . . Write soon, and I'll be looking for you at the concert next Sunday evening.

Lovingly,

Marianne

Honor Wolffs At Party; Celebrate 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Wolff, 516 Marion avenue, were honored Saturday evening when a group of friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Verne D. Lersch, 121 Stewart avenue, on the occasion of the Wolffs' silver wedding anniversary.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening with prizes being awarded to Mrs. Lersch and E. M. Eichin. At the close of the evening original verses appropriate to the event were read by Mrs. Harry Landers and Mrs. J. R. Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolff were presented with a gift of silver by the group. They were married in Columbus on March 6, 1915. Wednesday will be the date of their anniversary.

Time Now To Plan For Remodeling Of Rooms, Home

These long evenings are the time to get out pencil and paper and really put those remodeling plans down in black and white. Begin with estimating the family's needs, the architectural possibilities of the house and the size of your remodeling budget.

The final "must do" list might read something like this: a room of his own for Junior (he's now much too old to share his sleeping and play space), a thorough redecoration job on the living room (that cracked ceiling is a disgrace), and an enclosed porch.

One of the newest and most efficient ways to do these remodeling jobs is to use structural insulating board. This serves the triple purpose of building, redecorating and insulating against winter cold and summer heat. Insulating board makes distinctive decoration schemes possible for a small outlay of money and can be applied with a minimum of fuss and tear-up. Best of all, the insulating feature will in many instances pay the entire cost of the remodeling in reduced fuel bills.

Waste space in the attic can be transformed in a day's time into a room for Junior, a useful sewing room or a snug den. Insulating building board constructs the room and finishes it at one and the same time. The cost, when spread over a year, needn't amount to more than about a dollar a week for a 12x14-foot room.

Middle-Age Ailments Avoided By Dieting

Dr. Victor G. Heiser, noted health authority and writer, in a recent talk in Chicago said: "Every person must be made to realize," he said, "that the diseases which we suffer today can be very largely avoided. We have been able to achieve great successes in public health largely because we only had to deal with environment. But the next big victories will depend upon persuading the individual to alter his eating habits and that is difficult."

"I have been amazed at the progress that has been made and the concern there is for the health of the workers in our industries."

"In my studies I found trained dietitians, who supervised meals. In many plants consumption of milk had gone up from comparatively few bottles to several thousand in the course of a few years."

"It is amazing what an influence food has on our growth, and I don't doubt that the character of the people are largely associated with the diet they have to eat over a period of years."

Informal Musicales Held At W. T. Jamson Home

Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Jamson, Blymyer avenue, entertained informally last night with a musicale in celebration of Mrs. Jamson's birthday. Musical selections and readings were given by the hostess, Miss Thelma Reed, Miss Sarah Catherine Wallace, Miss Betty Austin, Miss Harriett Johnston, Miss Esther Lantz, Mrs. George Hall and John Grabler.

Group singing followed. At the close of the evening refreshments were served buffet style from a long table decorated with lighted tapers and a centerpiece of jonquils and pink snapdragons.

Catapults of the cross-bow type were invented by Dionysius, the tyrant of ancient Syracuse, in 399 B. C.

Florence Weaver Becomes Bride Of Man From Bellville

A very quiet nuptial ceremony performed at 8:30 a. m. yesterday at the First Lutheran church by Dr. Grover E. Swoyer united in marriage Miss Florence M. Weaver, daughter of Mrs. Alice E. Weaver, 451 Rae avenue, and George F. Spayde, Bellville.

For her marriage Miss Weaver wore a blue crepe costume with shell pink trimming and matching accessories. Her shoulder corsage was an orchid.

Miss Weaver has been employed for a number of years at the Charles Ritter company. Mr. Spayde is a retired farmer. The couple left immediately following the wedding breakfast, which was served at the Bellville farm home for a six week wedding trip through the southern states and Florida.

In mid-April Mr. and Mrs. Spayde will be at home at Bellville.

Mrs. Darling Feted At Evening Shower

Mrs. C. M. Copeland and Mrs. Ovid Epps entertained with a shower for Mrs. Richard Darling recently at the Copeland home on Louise avenue. The honoree was Miss Anna Mae Mowry before her recent marriage.

Bridge was the diversion at three tables. Mrs. Philip Deschner and Miss Helen Tolles won the prizes, which they presented to Mrs. Darling. Individual nosegays and spring appointments decorated the small tables when refreshments were served. The group gave the honoree a shower of miscellaneous gifts, and the hostesses presented her with a lace tablecloth.

Mrs. Griffith Honoree At Meeting of Class

Mrs. George Griffith, the former Miss Barbara Thorpe, was feted with a miscellaneous shower Saturday evening when members of the Wohlo class of the Evangelical Congregational church met with Miss Lois Williams, 123 South Adams street.

Following the business meeting a social hour was held and contest prizes were awarded to the Misses Geraldine Brumshenkel and Helen Metzger. Miss Helen Stenstrom, East Mansfield, will be hostess for the next meeting.

PAIR FETED.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Allen, the former Miss Helen Reynolds, were honored Saturday evening at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Matthews, 20 Fair street. The eight guests were seated at a long table set with gold and white appointments. The centerpiece was a traditional wedding cake. The bride was presented with an electrical and a linen gift by the hosts and guests.

ALLIANCE GIRL WEDS MANSFIELD RESIDENT

The Former Miss Virginia Edwards Comes Here As Bride of Bradford Johnson; Couple Will Make Home On Helen Avenue.

CHARMING simplicity marked the wedding of Miss Virginia Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edwards, Alliance, and Bradford Johnson of Mansfield, son of Mrs. May Johnson, Alliance, which was solemnized by Rev. John V. Stephens, jr., at 1:45 p. m. Saturday in the chapel of the Alliance First Presbyterian church.

The wedding ceremony was read before the immediate families of the bride and bridegroom. The former Miss Edwards chose for her wedding ensemble a sheer wool street dress of moss green with matching accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of Talisman roses.

Miss Marjorie Niuman, who was her cousin's bridesmaid, wore a heather-gray outfit with pink accessories and a corsage of Briarcliff roses. Charles Johnson served as best man for his brother.

A three-tier wedding cake served as the centerpiece of the refreshment table when a reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. Later in the afternoon the couple left for a wedding trip. Upon their return they will be at home to friends at 133 Helen avenue, Mansfield, until the completion of their newly-decorated apartment.

Mrs. Johnson, a member of Omega Nu Tau sorority, before her wedding was complimented at a series of parties given in her honor by Alliance friends.

Mr. Johnson, who attended Carnegie Institute of Technology and was graduated from Ohio State university, is now with the Ohio Brass company. He is a member of Delta Upsilon social fraternity and Eta Kappa Nu and Tau Beta Pi, honorary electrical engineering fraternities.

The guests of honor at yesterday's affair were the Misses Louise Enderlie, Holly Baker, Virginia Shaffer, Dorothy Harbaugh, Ann Schmidt, Rose Huck and Marjorie Swanger.

Barkley Predicts Better U.S. Collective Bargaining

DECLARES NEW DEAL BIG AID TO BUSINESS

Senator Lauds Administration on Seventh Anniversary of F. D. R. Inauguration.

WASHINGTON —(P)—Democratic leader Barkley, praising accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration, predicted today that federal machinery for "orderly collective bargaining" would be "perfected so as to function more adequately and effectively."

Speaking in the senate on the seventh anniversary of President Roosevelt's first inauguration, Barkley said that improvements in the government's labor set-up would come "as time moves on."

He said the president's continued interest in the right of labor "has brought upon him more violent criticism than any of his other policies," and called it "regrettable" that "he did not receive as complete cooperation as might have been desired from the groups whose rights he championed."

He declared that New Deal agencies had contributed substantially to business improvement.

"It is a regrettable fact," he said, "that in spite of all the efforts we have made, there are still too many millions of our people on the unemployed rolls. But I have searched in vain among our critics—including presidential candidates whose common theme song is now the alleged failure of the New Deal—to offer any constructive suggestions that contribute to a solution of the unemployment problem."

"If our industrial and social and economic system could improve over the next four years at the same rate at which it has improved during the last seven years, unemployment would be almost completely eliminated in the United States."

Crawford County To Vote On New Fair Structure

BUCYRUS—Whether or not the grand stand at the Crawford county fairgrounds, destroyed by fire two weeks ago, is to be replaced will be left to the voters of the county. This position was taken by county commissioners who met with the county fair board, Saturday when the future of the county fair was discussed.

"If the people want a grandstand at the fair grounds, they will support a small bond issue to provide funds for its construction," commissioners told the board.

It will be impossible to submit the issue to a vote at the May primary, because of lack of time in which to have the preliminary legislation approved by the state tax board. It would be impossible to construct the grandstand in time for this year's fair in any event, commissioners told the board.

Members of the fair board are expected to meet in a called session within a few days to discuss what type of county fair could be offered without grandstand facilities.

Wanted Human Skin Made Into Pair of Gloves

SALEM, Ore.—(P)—Oren C. McDowell, jr., 21-year-old meat-cutter, ended a brief flurry of excitement in Napa, Calif., today by confirming that two human skins sent to a Napa tannery belonged to him.

They were obtained from a dental school, he explained, adding, however, he knew nothing concerning an unsigned note asking that the skins be used to make a pair of gloves.

The youth said he took the skins to the Salem Tanning company a week ago to have them processed but asserted he did not know they had been sent to Napa.

Elmer Griepentrog, owner of the tanning company, declared he sent the skins to Napa because he did not want to handle them himself. He said tanning of human skins was not "particularly unusual."

McDowell explained he got the idea of having the skins treated after seeing a billfold of the same material.

GETS $500 FINE

ASHLAND—A fine of $50 and costs was imposed against Lester W. Funk of Ashland, on pleading guilty to charge of using fictitious license plates.

Justice of Peace R. R. Teeter, before whom Funk was arraigned suspended $45 of the fine provided that Funk pays the remainder and the costs by March 15.

EAGLES IN SESSION

CRESTLINE—Mrs. O. P. Tracht presided for the regular meeting of the Eagles auxiliary held in the Eagles hall Friday evening. Routine business was followed by a social hour when cards and lunch were features. Mrs. Clayton Hoffman was chairman of the committee in charge.

PLYMOUTH LADY SUCCUMBS AT 98

Mrs. Hannah Bistline Was Oldest Resident of Vicinity.

PLYMOUTH — Mrs. Hannah Bistline, 98, one of the oldest residents of this vicinity died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Barr.

She is survived by two sons, Marquis, Boston, Mass., and Scott, of North Fairfield, Ohio; one granddaughter, Mrs. Helen Sutton, Attica; and one daughter, Mrs. Barr, with whom she made her home.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 from the residence, Rev. Richard Wolfe, pastor of the Lutheran church, officiating. Interment will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

TALK FARLEY IN OHIO RACE

Entry Foreseen as Dispute in Cleveland Rages Over Naming Delegates.

COLUMBUS—(P)—Reports circulated here today that a slate of James A. Farley-for-president delegates might be entered in Ohio against a Democratic organization slate favorable to renomination of President Roosevelt if he desires it.

Farley, national party chairman who managed campaigns which won President Roosevelt two terms in the White House, has not declared himself a presidential candidate, but under Ohio law he would have to do so before a slate could be entered for him.

Several leading Democrats acknowledged here that a Farley campaign might be waged in Ohio unless there was a settlement in a dispute over selection of organizational delegates in the Cleveland area.

It was understood that Ray T. Miller, Cuyahoga county Democratic chairman, wants full authority to select the six delegates from the 20th, 21st and 22nd congressional districts.

National committee Charles Sawyer, avowed third-term advocate and "favorite son" presidential candidate for the organization slate, was reported to be demanding the right to name three of the delegates from this area.

A full slate of delegates has been entered for Farley in Massachusetts and three delegates for him in New Hampshire.

PRESENT BADGES

26 Scout Members Receive Service Awards Sunday.

SHELBY—Service badges were presented to 26 members of Troop 3 of the Boy Scouts Sunday morning at First Methodist church in observance of the fifth anniversary of the troop. The badges were presented to the scouts by Assistant Scoutmaster Louis Wright.

Five year service badges were awarded to Fred Garvin, Jr., Roger Pfahler, Ervin Hollenbaugh and Bernard McLaughlin, charter members of the troop.

Other boys receiving badges and their number of years of service were: Four years, Bob Briggs, Dean Johnson, Hal Lewis, and Dean Stroup; three years, Dick Claes and Russell Wilkinson; two years, Jim Hursh, Don Cline, Richard Cumberworth, Charles Hart, Dave Lewis and Kenneth Troxell; and one year, Marty Luchansky, Dean Cornell, Lawrence Boelhoff, Billy Forquer, Dean Kime, Jack Vail, Don Monn, Gerald Spangler and Marlin Yarnan.

"Be Prepared" was the address given at the service by Rev. Arthur Staples. The scouts attended the service in a body and sang a special selection, "God Bless America." The scout oath and laws were also given to the troop members.

At the close of the service the troop was entertained for a "birthday" party in the church chapel by the members of the Goodfellowship Sunday school class of the church.

EXCHANGE GIFTS

CRESTLINE—A 7 o'clock dinner was served members of the Double Four club Friday evening at the Blue Lantern.

Following the dinner the group played bridge at the home of the hostess, Mrs. Merle Hutson. Mrs. C. G. Marquart, Mrs. E. C. Brandt and Mrs. A. G. Holcker won first, second and consolation awards.

An exchange of white elephant gifts was also a feature of the meeting.

PREDICTS CIRCULATING LIBRARY OF 1000 VOLUMES AT LOUDONVILLE

LOUDONVILLE—A circulating library in St. Peter's Catholic Parish with an initial supply of 200 volumes, will grow to at least 1,000 books in the near future, Pastor Rev. Edmund A. Kirby recently predicted. "It will be an offset to the multitude of undesirable publications and will be a source of general intellectual improvement," he said.

New books will be purchased from proceeds of social programs. Mrs. Carl Bowman was hostess Thursday evening at her home on Mt. Vernon Ave. to the La-La-Lot club and one guest, Mrs. E. S. Horner. Bridge progressed at two, dinner.

ILLNESS FATAL TO WAR VETERAN

Former Bucyrus Resident Will Be Buried Tomorrow; Memorial Damaged.

BUCYRUS — Last rites will be held Tuesday afternoon in the Wise funeral home for Edward Murphy, 59, formerly of Bucyrus, who died Friday in Hines hospital, Chicago, following a four year illness.

Rev. Walter Purdy of First United Brethren church will officiate and burial will be made in Oakland cemetery.

The deceased is survived by one son Walter and the following stepchildren, Emi, Cecil, Opal, Pearl Wolfe and Mrs. Frank Yonikus of Bucyrus and one brother James of St. Louis and a sister Ella Smith of California. Mr. Murphy was a member of the Moose, V. F. W. and he was a Spanish war veteran.

The memorial to Gold Star mothers of the World War, at South Sandusky avenue and Marion road, was damaged badly Saturday when a large hay truck owned by Jim Moody of the Bucyrus Straw company of Mechanicville, O., skidded and struck the memorial. The truck was driven by Elmer Holmes.

Bucyrus' contributions to the Finnish relief fund reached $258.40, exclusive of contributions now being collected by private groups. Chairman E. B. Ruhl announced today.

WOMAN TO SPEAK BEFORE FOREMAN GROUPS TONIGHT

One of the few women ever to speak before an industrial men's organization in Mansfield, Miss Vivien Kellems, head of the Kellems Products, Inc., New York, will address the Mansfield-Shelby Foremen's club at a dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. today at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Miss Kellems, a world traveler and lecturer, is the only woman manufacturer in the electrical industry and one of the three women members of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Observing "ladies night," Foremen's club members will have their wives and women guests at the session. A dance will follow the dinner program.

HELD ON DRUG CHARGE

COLUMBUS—(P)—John Frederick Shonding, Lancaster, was to be arraigned today before U. S. Commissioner Robert W. Newlon on a charge of attempting to sell narcotics. He was arrested in Lancaster Saturday by federal marshals.

BABY ABANDONED

DELAWARE—(P)—A baby girl, one or two days old, was found abandoned in a market basket at the edge of Delaware today. The baby was wrapped in cotton and wrapping paper but doctors said it was suffering only from a slight cold.

AVERTS BLAZE

COLUMBUS — (P)—Quick action of the night superintendent, Mrs. Leona Winders, in extinguishing a fire lighted by a patient was credited today with averting a possible serious blaze at the Columbus State hospital. The patient ignited a blanket.

REFUSE TO APPROPRIATE QUARTER BILLION MORE FOR ADMIRAL BYRD

WASHINGTON — (P)—The house appropriations committee refused today to approve another $250,000 appropriation for the Byrd Antarctic expedition, saying that it had been misinformed last year as to the expedition's needs.

2 BOYS MISSING

Sheriff Starts Search for Two Ontario Youths.

Sheriff E. P. Long and police were asked today to search for two 14-year-old Ontario youths who were reported missing from their homes since 9 p. m. Saturday.

The youths, both pupils in the Springfield township schools, are Arthur Bard and Wesley Mitchell. The Bard youth, who lives with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bard, was described as five feet seven inches tall and weighing 120 pounds. The other boy is five feet six inches tall and weighs 135 pounds. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mitchell.

Relatives of the boys said they disappeared Saturday night after coming to Mansfield with the Bard youth's grandparents.

BOYS DROWN

Believed Trying to Rescue Pet When They Fell In Cistern.

CASSOPOLIS, Mich.—(P)—Two small boys were found drowned in an abandoned cistern here Sunday. Near their bodies a cat swam feebly in the water.

Officers expressed belief that Paul Bowman, 12, and George Corbit, 8, were attempting to rescue the cat when collapse of a concrete platform precipitated them into the water.

The first secretary of the navy was Benjamin Stoddert in 1798.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Karin to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

ARREST TWO TO FINISH TERMS

Police Act After Court Learns They Were Released Before Full Time Was Up.

the same time and given fines ranging from $100 to $400 were released after bond had been posted in municipal court for the payment of their fines.

Judge Kalbfleisch expressed surprise as did Ward when he learned of the release of the three without payment of the fine.

He said that the law requires that the creditors in an insolvency action be called for the hearing which is held in probate court.

The only notice that the municipal court has received is a copy of the probate court journal entry which discloses that an application for an insolvency hearing was made by the Kirkendall woman.

The entry dated Jan. 21 was received nearly a month after she had been released, municipal court attaches said.

Ward, who criticized probate court for releasing the prisoners, charged that the journal entry did not comply with the state statutes.

He claimed the insolvency action provides for the release of a prisoner after 60 days, but does not apply in liquor law violations.

He said the commitment made by the municipal court, where they were prosecuted, required the prisoners to serve the full sentence.

The insolvency action it was explained may be filed in probate court by any prisoner after serving 60 days through the commissioner of insolvency, who is Attorney R. J. Brown.

The petitioner must list all creditors and a hearing is held before the probate judge to determine whether the prisoner is eligible for release.

CLUB SEES MOVIE

CRESTLINE — "Man Overboard" was the subject of the film shown to a large assembly at the weekly meeting of the Townsend club held in the B. of R. T. hall Friday evening. The picture was furnished by national headquarters and was shown by H. E. Hawthorn of Forest.

O. E. Scheiber presided for the short business session.

HOW GIFTS GET THROUGH

CINCINNATI —(P)—Cincinnati's large population of German descent heard Saturday how gifts are delivered to Germany. A firm organized to handle food gift packages reported purchases are being made in a neutral country and shipped by freight into Naziland. Then they go into the German mail.

JOKE FATAL

Blame Practical Frank for Death Of Negro at Ironton.

IRONTON —(P)—A practical joke was blamed today for the death of Gifford Rucker, 31, and the serious injury of W. T. Washington, jr., 18, a negro.

Authorities were told that pranksters painted Washington's face white while he was asleep. Rucker tried to get the paint off with gasoline and the gasoline exploded.

ROBBED AS SHE CLEANS SCHOOL

Purse, Tells Police Rings, Watch Were Worth $400.

Police today sought a thief who invaded the new Johnny Appleseed high school yesterday while employees were cleaning up classrooms and carried off a purse belonging to a temporary worker.

The victim, Mrs. E. H. Lutz, 230 Helen avenue, told officers two diamond rings, valued at $350; a wrist watch she said was worth $49.50 and $2 in change were in her purse.

She said she had laid the purse with her coat and hat in one of the classrooms. When she was ready to go home at 4 p. m. the purse was missing. The door was not locked.

Supt. W. L. Miller said Mrs. Lutz was a temporary employee hired to assist in putting the new building in shape for use.

BACHELOR DIES

MILLERSBURG—Funeral services for Llewellyn G. Bilderbach, 70, who died early Sunday at his home, two miles west of here, will be held at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon from the Elliott funeral home here. Rev. H. H. Creager of the Trinity Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in the Millersburg cemetery.

A native of Holmes county, Mr. Bilderbach had been a farmer all his life. He was a member of Trinity Lutheran church and a bachelor. He is survived by a brother, William, of the home.

RELATIVE DIES

GALION—Funeral services were held in Grayslake, Illinois, Saturday morning for Shelby R. MacDonald, 47, husband of the former Opal Smith of Galion. Mrs. Hazel Smith of 660 Cherry street is a mother-in-law of the deceased. Mr. MacDonald died Wednesday in Highland, Illinois, following an appendicitis operation. He was associated with the MacDonald Tree Service, and at one time was located in Ashland, Ohio. His parents and widow survive.

NATIVE DANE WILL TELL OF HER HOMELAND

Speaks at Galion Citizenship Banquet; Jr. High Band Heard in Concert.

GALION—A highlight of the social season on the calendar for this week in Galion is the annual Citizenship Banquet which is sponsored by the Federation of Women's clubs. This will be held Thursday evening, March 7, at the First Methodist church beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

Mrs. H. F. White, native of Denmark, has been secured as guest speaker. She will tell about home life in Denmark, and will appear in the national Danish costume.

Since she came to America 21 years ago, she has visited in Denmark three different times, her last trip being made last summer. Mrs. White is with the Home Extension Department of Ohio State university, Columbus.

This social function will be attended by all of the members of the clubs affiliated with the federation, in addition to the Business and Professional Women's club.

The Junior high school band composed of 70 members, ranging in grades from sixth to the ninth inclusive, under the direction of W. F. VonBrock, presented a concert Sunday afternoon.

Solos were given by Franklin King, Robert Muth and James Hoekstra, who played cornet, trombone and trumpet, respectively.

There were ensemble numbers by the band, and a sextette of girls from the Junior high school sang several selections. This group included Persis Townsend, Ann Boyd, Marilyn Beck, David Stewart, Llew Oxaal and Richard Ness, under the direction of Winifred Schamp.

The Senior high band will give the next concert in the series arranged by Bessie Todd.

Charges Ashland

Company Seeks to Defraud Creditors

ASHLAND—The Eagle Rubber company was incorporated last August so that it could defraud its creditors, the Ohio Public Service company charged in a cross petition filed in common pleas court here. The officers of the local company, which is in receivership, are charged with wrongfully conveying certain of the company property, consisting of inventory, accounts receivable, contract rights and all intangible property "for the purpose of avoiding payment of its obligations."

The O. P. S. brought the suit in the local court on a claim that the company owes it $3,215 for electrical power, and asks judgment for that amount. It also asks Judge H. E. Culbertson to turn over to the receiver all property held now by the incorporation, and formerly held by the company.

The firm was incorporated at a time when the Eagle Rubber was heavily indebted, it is charged in the petition.

The local company is now under receivership, having been sued by Raymond A. Gordon on a foreclosure action.

Hollywood is not yet interested in the present European war for picture possibilities, we read. But just wait until they arrest a spy as beautiful and glamorous as Matt Hari!

STOCKS REVEAL RAGGED EDGES IN MART TODAY

Cheerful Earnings Statements and Hopeful News Falls to Spur Sentiment.

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK—Stocks presented a ragged appearance in today's market.

Seaboard Air Line turned over in 10,000-share blocks, unchanged at 25 cents a share.

Bonds, commodities and foreign securities markets were mixed.

Cheerful earnings statements and scattered hopeful news items failed to spur speculative sentiment to any great extent, brokers reported.

A little encouragement was derived from the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said the recent decline in the hard metal industry had been definitely checked although changes for the better were too slight to be regarded as a complete reversal of the previous trend.

Holders of aviation shares noted estimates unfilled orders of plane makers have risen sharply since the first of the year, now standing at a record peak of more than $700,000,000.

G. O. P. Victory Hopes Spurred By Donahey Retirement

DEMS HUNTING CANDIDATE TO FILL VACANCY

M'Sweeney First to Announce But Others Are Expected to Seek Senate Nomination.

(By International News Service) COLUMBUS—Republican expectations of sweeping victories at the polls in Ohio next November soared to a new high today because of Sen. Vic Donahey's decision to retire from politics when his first term in the senate expires in January.

Donahey, an independent Democrat and by all standards the best vote-getter Ohio politics has produced in many a decade, attributed his retirement to a desire to preserve his health which lately has been a source of anxiety to his friends and family.

But the Republican command, now eager to admit that "Honorable Vic" is able to judge unerringly how the political winds of Ohio are blowing, hailed his action as "a conclusive and devastating prophecy" of Democratic reversals next November.

The Democrats, meanwhile, cast an appraising eye over a big field of potential senatorial candidates, hoping to unite behind the one who has the best chance of triumphing over the Republican nominee.

Former Congressman John M'Sweeney, Wooster, tossed his hat into the ring as soon as Donahey revealed that he would not run again. Francis W. Durbin, Allen county Democratic leader, said he was seriously considering being a candidate.

Other potential aspirants who were expected to reach decisions this week included ex-Gov. George White, ex-Congressman Stephen M. Young, National Committee-Man Charles Sawyer, former Gov. Martin L. Davey, Donahey's son-in-law, Attorney James W. Huffman, and Francis W. Poulson, former state committee chairman.

Former Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, Cleveland, quickly removed himself as a potential candidate to succeed Donahey by declaring that he was "not interested."

Mayor Harold H. Burton, of Cleveland, who is opposing Congressmen Dudley A. White, Norwalk, for the Republican senate nomination, paid tribute to Donahey for his service to Ohio, but expressed the belief that the state would elect as Donahey's successor "a Republican devoted to constructive policies of recovery."

Candidates have only a short time, until March 15, to circulate their nominating petitions and file them with the secretary of state, if their names are to appear on the May 14 primary ballot.

In Washington some of his senate colleagues immediately raised the cry of a "Draft Donahey" drive, asserting that the 66-year-old three-time governor was too valuable to be lost to the Democratic party in this crucial election year.

But Donahey has made up his mind, unhesitatingly, and his friends in Columbus believe, finally, and it was doubted whether any amount of persuasion could induce him to change it now.

Tosses Daughter Out of Burning Home To Safety

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—Arthur Comer, 34, who tried in vain to rescue his wife and three of their four children from their burning home, was in serious condition in a Charleston hospital today.

Mrs. Emma Comer, 27, and her children, James, 5, June, 2, and Fay Frances, 20 months, were burned to death in the fire at the Comer home, five miles from Charleston, early Sunday.

Comer saved Betty Louise, 3, by throwing her from a second story window. He carried out his wife but was unable to reach the other children.

Neighbors discovered the fire State Trooper H. H. Burke who investigated, said the cause of the fire could not be determined.

Up and Down THE STREET

Mansfield's City hall was 15 years old today. There was no birthday celebration but the handful of municipal workers who moved into the building March 4, 1925 and who are still there today recalled that "moving day" was the same day that the late Calvin Coolidge was inaugurated in Washington. Among those city workers are Engineer W. C. Statler, Auditor Paul L. Kelley, Deputy Auditor Ruth Durig and many police and firemen.

The handicraft of a transient held in the county jail had decorated a number of the court-house offices today with trinkets. Most of the toys were little mice made from pecan shells with beads for eyes and small pieces of wood for ears and a tail. The maker of the toy mice suggested that the ears and tail could be made to move by placing a live fly inside the shell, but the owners decided they didn't want that kind of animation.

Boys at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday morning turned actors for a short time, while motion pictures of the various activities there were taken by Robert Y. Davis, teacher at Johnny Appleseed junior high school. Davis shot 100 feet of film of boys in gym classes, playing basketball, swimming and taking part in activities in the game rooms. The pictures will be shown to the boys soon.

A chap who called The News-Journal Saturday in quest of information "to settle a bet" (that happens often) was probably surprised at the promptness with which he got his answer. The question was the date of the Lorain tornado, and the recipient of the call at The News-Journal end of the line fired back the answer, "June 28, 1924 at 5:05 p. m." without a second's hesitation. It wasn't a case of one of those encyclopedic minds, but just that the answer was in the midst of the tornado and probably will never forget it.

FIND PLANE

Missing Liner Wrecked Near Iranian Coast.

CALCUTTA—(AP)—Wreckage of the Imperial Airways super-airliner Hannibal was found strewn along the south Iranian coast today. It was believed the crew of four and four passengers had been killed.

An Imperial Airways plane which had been missing for the last 10 days, was found today, found the wreckage two miles south of Jauelkuhi.

The plane left Jiwani, Iran, Friday morning for Sharjah, where it was to have landed five hours later. It was last reported 135 miles east of Sharjah.

The 42-passenger four motored plane was the world's largest when built in 1931. It had flown more than 1,000,000 miles without accident.

ENTERS PLEA OF INSANITY

Wealthy Youth Charged With Killing Guard Says 'It Doesn't Make Sense.'

CLEVELAND—(AP)—An insanity defense was entered today at the opening of the first degree murder trial of John L. McCormick, 21, indulged son of well-to-do Pittsburgh parents.

The University of Pittsburgh student is accused of driving to Cleveland Jan. 8 in his expensive automobile, holding up Western Union Telegraph Co. headquarters and shooting Theodore Nichols, a guard, with a fancy target pistol.

His plea of innocent was changed to "not guilty by reason of insanity." This followed a series of examinations concluded yesterday by psychiatrists.

James C. Connell, defense attorney, said the examiners "did not find McCormick violently insane or anything like that, but did discover he was incapable of normal reasoning." McCormick has said repeatedly, "I don't know why I did it. It doesn't make sense, does it?"

Police said he confessed holding up Western Union offices in East Liverpool, O., and Fairmont, W. Va., in the Cleveland holdup the guard, father of two children, walked in and was shot down in a gun battle. McCormick was caught by police two blocks away.

BROTHER DIES IN DAYTON

Word was received today of the death of N. C. Bergman, brother of Mrs. Stanley C. Schiller, in Dayton. Mr. Bergman was secretary-treasurer of the M. J. Gibbons Supply company in Dayton. Although funeral arrangements are not definite, Dr. and Mrs. Schiller and their children will leave for Dayton tomorrow morning.

SAYS HE'LL RUN

Jeffreys Threatens to Oppose Bricker in Race.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Asserting that there is an "alarming dissatisfaction" among Republicans with their state leadership, Raymond J. Jeffreys, Cleveland, announced today that unless some other candidate files against Governor Bricker in the next few days, he will enter the GOP gubernatorial primary.

WAR BOOM IN FOOD COST FIZZLES AS PRICES DROP TO 1934 LEVELS

CHICAGO—(AP)—Most of the war boom in food costs which took a sudden wallop at the American pocketbook last September has been wiped out in the past few months, commodity market statisticians showed today, and the expense of feeding the family has turned back toward its lowest level since 1934.

KEEPS UP PAGE

Sales Tax Receipts for Two Months Ahead of '39.

Continuing the rapid pace set earlier in the year, Richland county sales tax receipts for the first two months of 1940 were 23 per cent ahead of last year, figures compiled by State Treasurer Don H. Ebricht showed today.

Collections in the county for the period this year amounted to $86,089, an increase of $12,447 over figures for the first two months of 1939.

Receipts in the county for the third week of February totaled $8,430, a gain of $156 over the same week of 1939.

While a general pick-up in retail sales and a stricter collection system have contributed most to the sales tax gain, the state treasurer said the extreme cold weather and increased fuel buying added to the gain in January.

REVIEWS PAROLE CASES AT O. S. R.

Commission Meets at Reformatory for 3-Day Session.

The cases of 183 inmates at the Ohio State reformatory were to be reviewed by the Ohio Pardon and Parole commission which convened at the institution today.

Supt. Arthur L. Glatke said that the cases were all from the reformatory proper and would not include any at the prison's honor camps.

All members of the board are here for the sessions which are expected to continue through Wednesday. They are H. W. Jewell, Delaware, chairman, E. E. Everett, Lima, and L. O. Payne, Cleveland.

DIES IN SOUTH

Walter F. Henne, Brother of Mansfield, Stricken.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Henne, 183 Western avenue, have been called to Piqua by the death of the former's brother, Walter F. Henne, former Mansfield resident, who was stricken with a heart attack in Florida yesterday.

His body was to be flown to Piqua, his home, for burial, but arrangements were incomplete today.

Mr. Henne was formerly associated with the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company but left Mansfield about 15 years ago.

SENATORS SAY BILLION MORE THAN REQUIRED

Would Slash F. D. R. Request For Additional Revenue.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON—A movement to spend part of the treasury's $1,000,000,000 working cash to avoid new taxes or a higher limit on the national debt developed today in the senate.

President Roosevelt's budget called for $460,000,000 of new taxes for extra defense needs, but also provided that the treasury carry a billion-dollar working balance through the next fiscal year.

Secretary Morgenthau has argued that such balance is necessary to meet any emergency, such as war.

While two farm state senators, speaking anonymously, said they were restudying the budget as an effort to determine whether the working balance could be reduced, Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) told reporters:

"I can't see why some of those funds should not be used. We should make provision for parity payments to the farmer, and even if we appropriate that money, there would be no reason to increase the $45,000,000,000 debt limitation or raise taxes. It seems to me that is too much cash to carry on the treasury books."

Wheeler said he also favored using some of the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund for current expenditures if necessary.

Senator Adams (D., Colo.) declared that the treasury's working balance has been excessive.

With the house taking care of routine business, the senate was ready to consider today amendments broadening the Hatch act prohibiting federal employees from engaging in political activities. The amendments would extend the law to state employees paid in part from federal funds.

A senate appropriations subcommittee may take up this week the appropriation bill for such civil functions of the war department as river and harbor improvements. President Roosevelt said Saturday that the house appropriations committee had camouflaged its reasons for striking out a $15,000,000 appropriation to begin construction of a third set of locks in the Panama canal.

He indicated a belief there was no basis for congressional assertions that the war department was pushing the project too rapidly.

GARDENER DIES

John Seifley, 52, Succumbs in General Hospital.

John Seifley, 52, Millsborough road, for 30 years a landscape gardener in Mansfield, died Sunday in General hospital after a brief illness. He had landscaped many Mansfield estates.

Mr. Seifley was born in Shelby Settlement but had spent most of his life in Mansfield.

Surviving are his wife, Belle; a brother, Joseph and four sisters: Mrs. Charles Blackman, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Carl Hendel and Mrs. William Allweis, all of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday at St. Peter's Catholic church, with Mgr. R. C. Goebel officiating. Burial will be in the Catholic cemetery. The body will be at the Wapner funeral home until the hour of services.

DIES AT 76 IN BUCYRUS HOME

Mrs. Ida Jane Bender Stricken At Home of Daughter.

BUCYRUS—Mrs. Ida Jane Bender, life-long resident of Crawford county, died at 1:30 p. m. Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mae Ahlefeld, South East street. Mrs. Bender had been ill for 10 weeks.

A native of Liberty township, Mrs. Bender is survived, in addition to Mrs. Ahlefeld, by five sons, Lester of Galion and Earl, Charles, Clarence and Oliver of Bucyrus. Her husband, Frank, died in 1937.

A brother, Amos Grogg, Liberty township, and two sisters, Mrs. Julia Davis, Bucyrus, and Mrs. Alberta Keiter, Liberty township, also survive as do four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Ahlefeld home. Burial will be in Crail cemetery.

PLAN DINNER

Fish and Game Group Hears State Official Tomorrow.

George Emmett, Columbus, of the state conservation department, will address members of the Richland county Fish and Game association at their regular meeting at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at North Lake park pavilion.

Plans will also be made at the meeting for the "Sportsmen's Dinner" to be held March 21, when V. R. Gray, red and gun editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer will speak.

SETS CCC DATE

Relief Office to Take Camp Applications Wednesday.

Applications for enrollment in the CCC will be received at the Mansfield relief office all day Wednesday. Mrs. Agatha Leonard announced today. Accepted boys will leave for camp between April 1 and 20, she said.

Those who do not make application Wednesday will have to wait until next week for interviews. Mrs. Leonard said. This area's quota for enrollment has not yet been set.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Speaking for Myself.

I wonder how long it will be before the Broadway stage finds another great "flash" like Katharine Cornell, Maurice Evans, Helen Hayes, or Ethel Barrymore—actors of tremendously vivid personality as well as good technique. There are plenty of competent players in the theaters now (the excellent Group actors, for instance) but none with that special radiance, or footlight magic, that puts those few performers in the spellbinding class even when they are reciting the alphabet. If I had to make a guess at who'll be the next dramatic standout, I'd choose Ingrid Bergman, the young Scandinavian actress.

I like rainy days, but only in pictures directed by Alfred Hitchcock. I've discovered that all celebrities, like all college boys, have their all-time favorite dance tunes, and I'd love to know the reason why Barbara Hutton always asks the band to play "Rendezvous Time in Patee."

Joan Crawford requests "Melancholy Baby." William K. Vanderbilt wants to hear "Heigh-ho, Heigh-ho," and Arlene Judge likes "Exactly Like You." . . . Authoress Fannie Hurst's face always looks like powdered ivory.

I asked a debutante last night what she would do if she, like the fictional Brewster, had to spend a million dollars in a year.

She said, "I'd take a trip to England and Italy, buy all the books I wanted, get five dogs, buy a soda fountain, and make a terrific play for Jimmy Stewart."

Then she asked me and I'd buy two pictures by Degas to hang in my bedroom, spend three months in Hawaii without getting a sun tan, and give Mr. Rockefeller enough money to keep the corner table at the Rainbow Room reserved in my name every night.

Nothing makes me more nervous than a coloratura soprano, Lily Pons excepted. But all I want sure they aren't going to make that last note, and usually I'm right. . . . I always wonder what the hostesses at Roseland talk about between dances.

I've always had a feeling those complicated automatic record-changing combination radio-phonographs ought to scramble eggs, make waffles, and take telephone messages for their owners as well as give out with Beethoven concertos. . . . Richard Wright's novel, "Native Son," hits harder than Babe Ruth in his prime. . . .

I hear the girls in the ambulance corps in England are having a wonderful time. No one ever sees them in an ambulance, but their tailored uniforms look marvelous at the Ritz Bar.

If I stayed in Atlanta for six weeks I couldn't help coming back with a Southern accent. I wonder if those ushers at the Astor, who are exposed to "Gone With the Wind," every day, will be able to pronounce a final g by Easter. . . . I wish Warners would take Bette Davis out of those hoop skirts and wigs and I'd love to see Hedy Lamarr pulling taffing in somebody's kitchen—probably a lot of lads with kitchens would, too. . . . What ever became of Dolly Haas, the girl to whom Columbia pictures paid $2,000 a week for more than a year, and without ever using her? . . . I detest radio commercials, but those on the "Lone Ranger" program I find practically painless.

I am a middle-of-the-night idea getter. Whole sagas, sonnets, and brilliant snap-ending short stories occur to me at 3 a. m. and by daylight I can't even remember the titles. . . . I like Teddy Wilson's recording of "The Man I Love."

CHAPTER X.

As the door closed behind her, Star found that she was shaking from head to foot. In spite of all the trouble she had had, the arguments and scoldings, she had not believed that Mamie would really let her walk out of the apartment with no money. She had always told herself that in a crisis her mother would help her. She knew better now. She had no one. No single person to whom she could turn. Bob belonged to a past she was determined to forget. She had promised Nina not to get in touch with him and she intended to keep that promise no matter what the cost.

Her room rent was overdue. She dared not spend the last dime she had for street car fare. Blind with despair, she walked aimlessly, neither seeing nor caring where she was going. She had thought when she left Nina's that she had reached bottom. But until you were without money or the hope of making any you didn't know what real trouble was. She would save the dime for breakfast—but then what? The landlady had told her she would have to give up her room before noon the next day.

"I'm not running a charitable institution," she had reminded her. "And I can rent that room for as much as you're paying any time. If I wanted to I could hold your clothes for the two days over your week but I won't do that. You can have your things but you'll have to get out."

Star didn't blame her. It wasn't the landlady's fault that she was down on her luck. But what shall I do?" the girl thought. She had already telephoned the teacher who had recommended her to Nina but he was on his vacation. May-be it had been foolish of her not to let Joe get her a job if he could at one of those mysterious night clubs Mamie was always talking about, but with every in- stinct in her Star feared any- thing connected with Joe. She had suspected for years that his busi- ness—whatever it was—was not legitimate. To continue in the sordid atmosphere of her home was worse than death.

Was death so terrible, she won- dered, thinking of her room at Nina's with homesick longing. Per- haps after all she had been wrong to think she could take fate into her own hands. Perhaps from the beginning she had been meant to lose.

Completely absorbed in her thoughts, Star had paid no at- tention to where she was going. It had been late in the afternoon when she left her mother's apart- ment. Suddenly she realized that twilight had faded into dusk. Lights were blinking on in the houses across from the yacht har- bor toward which she had been walking. She used to come here as an adolescent girl to watch the little vessels being overhauled and renovated. It had given her a feeling of adventure to see them. Sometimes people would be on deck. Such carefree happy people who seemed to inhabit a different world. O world unmarred by an- gry words and evil scarred faces like that of her stepfather.

Had she sought it now uncon- sciously in her need for reassur- ance that there still was such a place and such people, or for a more sinister reason? The wa- ters of the bay lapped against the wooden piers. How much cour- age would it take to jump in and be carried away? Was it worth it to go on fighting?

Star had never been able to understand how any one could commit suicide. When she read about such things in the paper she always felt if they had waited things might have changed for them. If you pushed on through the blackness there was sure to be light ahead. It had been a com- forting theory. But for the first time in her life she was doubt- ing it. Wasn't it just one of those sayings people mouthed to con- sole themselves? But the time for deceiving herself was past.

"I had a dime in my pocket- book," she thought. "Just a dime. A thin dime, mother would say. After I have spent it for break- fast tomorrow I will call at the agency. They will say, 'as they have every day, 'Sorry, Miss Bright. Perhaps tomorrow.' But I can't wait until tomorrow. I can't listen to that again know- ing that 24 hours must pass with nothing to eat. And tomorrow I have to give up my room."

"Suppose I did break my prom- ise to Mrs. Lambert and call Bob? He hasn't any money except what she gives him. Until he goes to work in October he is complet- ily dependent on her. Or suppose I go home and Joe gets me involved in some of his crooked schemes? I'd rather die than that. Brown- ing probably isn't so bad but it would be terrible if I should change my mind after I had jumped. And I might change it. Life even without a room is bet- ter than being dead. Just being able to breathe. . . . I haven't any money or any place to go but I'm not beaten yet because I don't want to die."

This conclusion surprised her. How could life still be so im- portant stripped of everything or- dinary considered essential? But it was. Just the fact of her heart pumping the blood into her veins, her lungs filling with the moist, cool air.

Star had walked to the end of the deserted pier and stood look- ing down into the dark water but no longer afraid. The will to live had refused to surrender al- though she was trembling with re- action. Her face felt drained of color. Tears blurred her vision. It was one way out but she would not take it. She would go on liv- ing at any price.

Suddenly she had the feeling that some one was behind her. Wheeling, she saw a man in sweat- er and slacks. His features in the darkness were not plain but he had a nice voice.

"What are you doing out here?" he asked.

Ordinarily she would have walk- ed away without replying. She knew how to protect herself against the advances of strange men, but the moment before had been the most despairing of her entire life. Any human being would have been welcome inside the aw- ful vacuum into which she had been forced.

"I was just looking at the wa- ter," she said.

"No idea of jumping, I hope. I hate getting soaked."

"Do you mean you would have rescued me if I had?"

"I'd have tried but I trust you won't put me to the test."

Star felt as if a band, which had been tightening about her heart, suddenly snapped. She smiled uncertainly.

"That's funny because I have just decided it wasn't worth it. But if I had decided the other way you would have dragged me out so the result would have been the same in either case."

"Which proves you weren't meant to die yet."

Star said slowly. "I guess you're right. I don't want to die."

"Good girl," he approved. "Now that we've settled that, now about walking back to that cruiser over there and having a bite to eat?"

Following the direction he was indicating, Star saw a snug little craft riding lightly on the water.

"Do you work on it?" she asked hesitantly.

"I certainly do. Sundays and holidays and any other time I can squeeze in."

"Oh, you mean it's yours?"

"Yes. I've just returned from a week's vacation so there's plenty of food aboard."

Something about this man seemed vaguely familiar. She was sure she had seen him before. Perhaps that was why she trusted him.

Some folks are saying that the hardest steps to climb are those leading to the income tax offices in the federal building.

President Roosevelt's private secretary is franker than some of his third-term boosters—she says she likes her job and wants to keep it.

The Retirement of Vic Donahey

HOWEVER much the name and vote-getting strength of Vic Donahey may be needed by the Democratic party in Ohio this year, few will dispute his right to decide that he prefers to withdraw from public service for a much-needed rest, and preservation of his health.

Senator Donahey is one of those oddities in public life who has carried a reputation for honesty, sound judgment and at least passable capability throughout almost forty years of office-holding.

With only seven years of formal schooling, Vic Donahey takes place as the modern version of a self-made man. Never credited with brilliance, and recognizing his own limitations at all times, he had a knack of learning the things it was necessary to know in his progress from a youthful township clerk, through successive advancements to the high post of United States senator from Ohio, after having served three terms as governor of Ohio.

An example of the sincerity which Vic Donahey has carried through his long career in politics is found in his recent refusal to accept the "favorite son" role in Ohio's jockeying to get aboard the Roosevelt third-term bandwagon at the Democratic national convention.

After his third term as governor of Ohio, it was natural that Donahey should be mentioned for the presidency, but this man of sound sense but bad grammar replied bluntly: "I recognize my own limitations. I do not want to be president." And during his senate term he has made an all-time record for senatorial silence.

It is typical of Senator Donahey's unflagging interest in public affairs that he should say, in announcing his intended retirement: "I shall keep in touch with what I believe to be sound progressive public policy, and will raise my voice against any attempt by either political party or officer to impair the lawful rights of Ohio people."

It will be the hope of many friends, in both political parties that "Honest Vic" will live for many years in enjoyment of his retirement, that he will soon be restored to good health, and that he will long continue as an inspiration to those who regard public office as a public trust.

Scandinavian Allies

EUROPE now has something like a "United States of Scandinavia." Sweden, Norway and Denmark have agreed that they will maintain a common policy and act as a unit with regard to belligerent nations. They want to maintain a sphere of sanity and self-defense in a continent already on the verge of general war. They want to stop further encroachment of belligerents against their peace and prosperity.

Americans, none too confident of the outcome, wish them success. They probably represent the highest and the most decent and intelligent civilization now existing in Europe. They are, broadly speaking, of one blood and almost one language. It will be a great boon to mankind if they can maintain their peace and independence in the hot winds of war now blowing upon them from the east and south.

The pity of it is that Finland, their neighbor and equal in civilization and spirit, though of another race, cannot stand with them. A brutal enemy has struck her down and she now seems doomed.

It is saddening to reflect now that if the four could have stood together in the beginning, as the three stand now, the enemy in all probability would not have struck.

Peace Dream or Reality?

ARE AMERICANS seriously interested in the "Union Now" movement?" asked an English woman in a letter to a friend in the United States. "If you are not in earnest about it and do not intend to follow through, please do not recommend it to the rest of us!"

Those are sharp words and reveal, no doubt, the left-over disappointment experienced when this country, having given the League of Nations idea cordial support, declined to join the actual League when formed.

It is necessary to discuss many plans, including the "Union Now" proposal which has attracted great interest on both sides of the Atlantic. It is wise, however, not to try to set up machinery for them until there is some chance of making them work. Pleasant ideas, with no firm foundation of intelligent support under them, amount to little more than an emotional spree. Their collapse makes it harder to build a sound structure for peace and co-operation later.

Facial Repose Preferred

DENTAL photography seems to be passing. That is, the sort of picture in which the subject, usually feminine, bares her teeth and widens her lips until a person unused to this facial technique would hardly know whether the idea was a display of artificial dentures or an imitation of a dog about to bite a photographer.

Lately people who appreciate facial repose and a reasonably human look, in a picture or in real life, have been reassured. Reform seems to start on the society pages, with nice-looking girls actually photographed with their faces in repose and their lips closed, or nearly so, and an entirely human expression. And now show girls are also forsaking the canine grin.

Remedy for Blackout

COMMON knowledge in England is that the blackouts have produced far more casualties than the war. Recent reports have told of more than 3,000 traffic killings. People in the dark, naturally enough, are always running into each other in cars or about, or getting hurt by stumbling over things.

But now a remedy is suggested for the pedestrians, at least. Some ingenious reformer proposes that men's spats be treated with luminous paint and women's faces with luminous powder.

Frivolous London journalists are having some fun with the idea; but the British government might, and probably will, do worse. The plain fact seems to be that the idea's too sensible. If the problem's to be solved at all, they want something heroic.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — If you hurry around to the oyster bar in Grand Central terminal you may be in time to see two one-gallon cans of Cape Cod oysters addressed to the White House in Washington, D. C. "It's a standing order," explains the man in charge. "We've been sending two gallons of oysters to the president every week for seven years."

Jack Burrows, the florist, tells of a broker who ordered orchids sent aboard a ship for a 32-day cruise, two for every day to be delivered at dinner. His sweetie pie was taking a little pleasure cruise and, by George, he wasn't going to have her want for orchids just because she was on the ocean. Burrows packed them on ice, using the ordinary variety, the Cattelas, for the first two weeks. Then he switched to the sturdier varieties, which last longer, and also cost a little more. The bill was $240.

MAREK WEBER wanted to become a doctor, but he flunked his exams and became the Viennese Waltz King instead. He has been rewarded with medals by many crowned heads, but these trinkets on ribbons are not his most treasured souvenirs. The thing he likes to remember most is a certain night in a cafe in Berlin. Rain fell over the grey and gloomy city. Few patrons were astir. In fact, only one customer was in the cafe, a lonely sort of fellow who sat at his table four hours while Weber played him a ghastly concert. At length the man arose and walked out of the cafe. On the table he left his card, with a pencilled note expressing his appreciation. The name on the card was Fritz Kreisler!

Bob Considine is a sports writer and Eddie Dowling is a Broadway producer and actor of note. When Considine wrote a play about a screwball baseball player (Diz Dean in mind) Dowling wanted to play it. It's the Illiad of a slugger who lapses into strange slumps and carries the team up and down with him. The economic welfare of the wives of the ballplayers rise and fall with the slugger's success or failure.

But what I really wanted to get over is that Dowling will do two plays at the same time. One night he will impersonate the big league star, and the next he will play the Cannon in "Shadow and Substance," which has to do with the power of the Catholic church in Ireland. A versatile lad, Eddie, especially when you consider that he never has divorced himself from his political aspirations.

HIS friends gave George Riley a farewell dinner the night before he left N. Y. to become general manager of the Roosevelt in New Orleans. George is a sandy haired quick-witted Irishman, and he hopes the Deep South will judge him on his own merits and not by the fact that his grandpappy preceded him to New Orleans some 70 years ago in the company of a certain Yankee general named Butler. "I hope all those claims for lost spoons have been adjusted by the time I get there," says George, "but if they haven't, well, the Roosevelt has plenty, and I'm willing."

Daily Bible Thought

For this is thankworthy, if a man for conscience toward God endure grief, suffering wrongfully. For what glory is it, if when ye are buffeted for the cause of Christ, ye shall take it patiently? but if ye do well and suffer for it, ye take it patiently, this is acceptable with God. — 1 Peter 2:19, 20.

Health And Diet

Goiter's Cause And Treatment.

—By DR. CLENDENING

What is a goiter? What are its symptoms and treatment?

A goiter is an enlargement of the thyroid gland in the base of the neck. The normal thyroid gland, the secretion of which is essential to health, cannot be seen or felt. The enlargement of it is due to increase in the number of its cells. This means an increase in the gland's secretion.

Increased thyroid secretion causes nervousness, trembling and unsteadiness of the muscles, a sense of warmth and heat in the skin, mental excitement, rapid pulse, prominence of the eyeballs and loss of weight. All of these symptoms are not present in all cases. Nearly any combination of them may appear. Enlargement of the thyroid gland may occur without absorption of secretion, and, hence, without symptoms, or the thyroid gland may throw out an increased secretion without increase in its size. In other words, you may have a goiter without symptoms, and symptoms without goiter.

Under treatment, we emphasize the fact that simple goiter is produced by lack of sufficient iodine in the food, a condition found in certain geographical districts. Simple goiter can be cured or prevented by supplying a small amount of iodine to the body regularly twice a year, spring and fall.

In certain forms the symptoms of goiter will respond to rest, forced feeding and sedative medicines. In other cases removal by surgical operation is necessary.

What is the treatment of insomnia?

Insomnia is a symptom which may be due to pain or bad health. In the cases where alleged sleeplessness is the main or solitary symptom, it is invariably due to nervous stress or inadequate emotional attitude towards life. The modern viewpoint of insomnia is that it is not a bete noire which saps one's vitality and health. It is doubtful whether insomnia per se ever caused bad health. A prominent neurologist states that he has yet to see a patient with a mental disorder that can be attributed to insomnia.

Modern treatment condemns the use of hypnotics or drugs to induce sleep, as they simply mask the real condition. Counting sheep, etc., etc., is merely a trick for the repression of unpleasant ideas.

Many sleepless patients resist the temptation to take an afternoon nap because they think it epitomizes their stock of 24 hours' sleep. There is no foundation for this. On the contrary, a nap in the daytime is beneficial. It teaches relaxation and engenders confidence in the ability to get to sleep at night.

Vitamin principles have been found beneficial in many exhausted states, including insomnia, particularly ascorbic acid, the vitamin C principle, which may account for the fact that a glass of tomato juice or orange juice, taken before going to bed, helps.

Pointed Paragraphs

Pessimism is merely a case of intellectual indigestion.

If a man is no earthly good he is always asserting that he is as good as anybody.

Be Proud of Your Mistakes

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SO YOU'VE made a mistake? And you're feeling sunk and sore? Trying, of course, to keep folks from discovering it, but if they do, you say, you'll "stand up like a man and take your punishment."

That the way you feel? Then get wise to yourself! Instead of being ashamed of you could make it! No, I'm not saying that you should be proud of the blunder itself—but proud of the urge that lay behind it.

Think what that urge means! Here you are a lump of flesh, physically no better than any woolly worm, yet there is in you a spark which lifts you out of wormish apathy and drives you out to doubt and rebel, experiment—and make mistakes.

Thank God for that spark of His own divine free will! It is the greatest power and privilege in human life. And stop talking about "taking your punishment" for that mistake. Get busy instead and TAKE YOUR PROFIT FROM IT!

Ashamed to make a mistake? Better be ashamed if you don't make any! Anyone can lead a safe life, a pleasant, popular life. Anyone can escape criticism and achieve a spotless reputation. But what human with real spunk and intelligence would desire to lead such a life or have such a reputation? Personally, I'd rather do time for boss stealing!

For one can only achieve a spotless reputation by never offending public opinion. But upon what is public opinion based? Largely on mass cowardice, stupidity, laziness, sentimentality and conceit—all of which should be considered by any sensible person, but never to the point where it cramps healthy curiosity and rebellion.

We aren't here to acquire pretty reputations. We're here to LIVE. And how can you live unless you move with Life, who is herself the greatest experimenter, the most colossal blunderer? Every rock and twig and living body bears the record of countless formulas that didn't work to the one that did—yet the Old Gal goes whooping right along! If you're wise, you'll whoop with her.

No man seeks more passionately for perfection than a great scientist.

Remember, no matter what you've lost, no matter what it cost, you can be the wiser and stronger for that experience. If you'll have it so. Success is a pleasing experience, but you'll learn more about yourself, your world and your neighbor by one honest blunder than by a thousand triumphs.

And never prolong remorse. You've no more right to spend your time weeping over yourself than you have to indulge in any other form of self-glorification. Egotism is egotism, whether you say it with sniffling or smiles, and most professional penitents are just cowardly loafers who love the spotlight.

Life needs action! Get going, no matter how often you blunder—and thank God you have what it takes.

Editor News-Journal:

Living back in the woods by the lake, all by myself, no one to talk to but my dog, I have to tell loose to someone, so I am telling you folks that I do enjoy your daily paper.

It is so full of up-to-date news and editorials. I enjoy Jane Williams' articles. She hits the bulls-eye every time, and it is really refreshing. I also like Calvin Byers, in fact, I would like to take a walk and visit him. He sure lets one back to nature with his articles about wild life and trees, birds and daisies. He is good. The same for Watching Trends and Man About Manhattan—they're all so good and entertaining.

I see your classified ad man has his heavy appetite with him again in "Good Things to Eat"—stoves, radios, baby buggies, etc. He had better see a doctor, or he is a cont!

I walk over half a mile every night to get my paper, and believe me, I can hardly wait to get it. Please excuse the pencil mistakes, but I just had to tell you folks how much I enjoy and appreciate your News-Journal.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—If you go behind the scenes in the bankruptcy of the giant Associated Gas and Electric company, you can understand why Henry Morgenthau and Bob Jackson are so anxious that this be made a painstaking test case of holding company manipulations.

Some of the A. G. and E. financial operations are a stark object lesson to John Q. Public Investor.

Real fact is that most of the operating subsidiaries of Associated Gas and Electric are sound, some of them even blue-ribbon utility companies. But it appears from evidence produced by the various investigations of the giant system that some of the subsidiaries have been milked pretty thoroughly by the holding company and its controllers at the top.

Howard Hopson, czar of A. G. and E., organized four personal companies, incorporated in Newfoundland and owned in toto by him or his family. Hopson also set up a tax service, an accounting service and a purchasing service, and the subsidiary companies paid huge fees for these services.

For instance, Hopson hired Frederick S. Burroughs of Harris, Forbes and company—chief bankers of A. G. and E.—and paid him $60 per hour seven hours a day. This came to around $50,000 a year, paid by one of Hopson's personal companies. Then Hopson turned round and apportioned this charge among his subsidiary companies, but at about $150,000, or more than double the amount actually paid by him to Burroughs.

However, Hopson's most lucrative maneuvering was in buying options on his subsidiaries. For instance, in October, 1929, one of his personal companies in Newfoundland took an option on 63,000 shares of Associated Gas and Electric Securities company. The price to Hopson's personal company was $50 per share, although the market price was then about $66.

Then on the very same day that Hopson secured this option, General Gas one of the subsidiaries, decided that it wanted to buy 63,000 shares of A. G. and E. securities, which it proceeded to do from the Hopson company at $66 and a fraction per share.

So Hopson's personally owned company in Newfoundland got the difference, or a profit of $16 and a fraction per share on 63,000 shares of stock. This totaled $1,119,000—all made in one short day.

Such were the advantages of a holding company.

LaGuardia for President.

MAYOR Fiorello LaGuardia, who combines a sense of humor with a sense of reality, is being urged by his friends to become a candidate for president. LaGuardia, however, always demurs. He says he is too busy running New York City.

One of those who has mentioned the presidency to LaGuardia is none other than Franklin Roosevelt himself.

"Fiorello," said FDR the last time the two men were together, "I'm for you, not only because I'm for you personally, but because you know so much about government."

"Isn't that what he tells everyone?" a friend asked LaGuardia afterward.

"Maybe," shot back the mayor, "but it sounds good anyway."

Merry-Go-Round.

REX TUGWELL, handsome former under secretary of agriculture and brain-truster, is well under way on a history of the president's public career. Tugwell has access to all of Roosevelt's private papers and records. . . . Pare Lorentz, brilliant director of the government movies "The Plow That Broke the Plains" and "The River," has launched a movement to turn the colorful Florida keys between Key Largo and Key West, once the lair of pirates and key runners, into a national park to save them from commercialization. . . . A key man in the Caribbean neutrality patrol is Lt. Commander Fort Callahan, navy radio ace who as communication officer at the Key West base of operations handles all the messages of the force of under-surface, surface and aerial craft that constitutes the patrol.

Okay, Babe.

MRS. ROOSEVELT's most hectic experience at the recent turbulent meeting of the American Youth Congress was her effort to telephone the president from the convention hall.

She asked a guard for the nearest phone and he directed her to a small anteroom off the stage. Apparently what he didn't know was that this particular phone was used to transmit incoming messages to delegates on the floor.

When Mrs. Roosevelt picked it up and asked for the White House, she was startled to hear a cocky voice boom back:

"Aw, forget that place. What d'you want to call there for? The Roosevelts don't want to talk to you; they've got other things on their minds. Here's a message for Sam Johnson of Chicago. Tell him that Bill Morris will meet him in front of the drug store at 14th and F at 6 o'clock sharp. Okay, Babe?"

Stifling a laugh, Mrs. Roosevelt obligingly took down the message and promised to deliver it. Then when the caller hung up she made another attempt to put through her call. But again she ran into an incoming call, this time a lilting feminine voice.

"Would you mind telling Mary Murphy of Philadelphia something for me? This is Betty Blake. B-e-t-t-y B-l-a-k-e. Have you got it? Please tell Mary that I'm held up at this beauty parlor and I won't be able to make our luncheon engagement. I'll see her afterwards at our room."

By this time some of the youth delegates had learned of Mrs. Roosevelt's plight and gathered in great agitation about the phone.

"Tell them who you are," they cried in unison when she put down the receiver. "Tell them you're Mrs. Roosevelt!"

Mrs. Roosevelt firmly shook her head. "No, that won't do," she said. "If I did, I am sure they would tell me to 'stop kidding 'em.'"

Mail Bag.

H. O. Madison, Wis.: The National Youth Administration has no connection in any way with the American Youth Congress and had nothing to do with its recent Washington meeting. Not only did NYA Administrator Aubrey Williams strongly disapprove of the views expressed at the AYC gathering, but in a speech to the boisterous delegates severely condemned them and declared, "Any country that is worth working for to make better is worth fighting for. I served with the AEF in France and I'm proud of it."
